DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.

Claims 1 and 3-6 rejected under 35 USC §103(a). This rejection is set forth in the prior Office action mailed on December 07, 2009.

Note that that the rejection applies for the newly added claim, claim 6.

Claims 1 and 3-6 are rejected under 35 USC §102(a)/103(a). This rejection is set forth in the prior Office action mailed on December 07, 2009.

Note that that the rejection applies for the newly added claim, claim 6.

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments filed on May 03, 2010 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicants' argue that for the 103(a) rejection over several references, that there is precedence that the fact that several reference are used for a rejection, evidences the non-obviousness of the claims, see footnote of page 4 of the remarks. The arguments are misplaced, because the cited case log describes a situation in which several references are used for every element of the claim(s). Yet this is not the case, the examiner has used a shortcut in which several primary references are combined in the alternative with several secondary references, such secondary references teaching the same aspect of the invention, which was/were missing from the primary references. In other words instead of making several 103 rejections, the references were combined in the alternative in only one 103 rejection.

With regard to the 103(a) rejection applicants' have explained all of the references individually, without addressing the combination of them. Note that the secondary references were cited for specific teachings, not that they teach the invention; otherwise it would have been an anticipatory rejection instead of an obviousness one. In response to applicant's arguments against the references individually, one cannot show nonobviousness by attacking references individually where the rejections are based on combinations of references. See In re Keller, 642 F.2d 413, 208 USPQ 871 (CCPA 1981); In re Merck & Co., 800 F.2d 1091, 231 USPQ 375 (Fed. Cir. 1986). Note that even if the secondary references do not show gloss as argued by applicants, it is the primary references that show the cast coating which would give gloss in the same range as argued. Besides, only claim 6 explicitly recites the gloss of the web, yet as explained before, the primary references show this property.

As to the arguments with regard to the 102(a)/103(b) rejection over WO 03/056101, on page 9 of the remarks, applicants have not argued how this reference is different to the one claimed or if there is a difference why it would not have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to modify it so to obtain the claimed invention. As pointed out in the previous rejection, the reference seems to show all of the limitations of the claims. It teaches every element of the claims in terms of the additives used to make the web, including the newly added limitations in the use of a bond inhibiting agent and also teaches that any method of coating can be used to coat the web, this makes the claims obvious or at the very least the minor modification(s), which in this case would be the explicit recitation of the cast coating technique to coat the web, would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art absent a showing of unexpected results.

Conclusion

4. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
